Walking barefoot
I feel elevated worthy
Warm, and healed
I suffered a lot
I'm steadfast, I won't bow down

Echo chamber, cold and bare
Where isolation sounds alone
Withdrawn to this parodic lair
Withdrawn to this parodic lair
Each one croaks upon his own

After all this torture

I'm steadfast, I won't bow down

Marionettes whose thought consists of skepticism
Self-begotten
Impotently shake their fists
Their bodies headless, malformed, rotten

After all this torture
I'm steadfast, I won't bow down
After all this torture

Walking barefoot
I feel like I am elevated
Worth, warm, and healed
I suffered a lot
And the years flew by
And after all this torture

I'm steadfast, I won't bow down
I'm steadfast, I won't bow down
I'm steadfast, I won't bow down

I'm steadfast, I won't bow down
I'm steadfast, I won't bow down
I've started, and I will not finish
I'm staying, and I won't just disappear
I'm worthy, and I will not be erased
I'm worthy, and I will not be erased
I'm steadfast, I won't bow down
I'm steadfast, I won't bow down

Each one croaks upon his own
I'm staying and I will not disappear
Each one croaks upon his own
I'm worthy, and I will not be erased

I'm steadfast, I won't bow down
