The Beginning

Hawkwind

The computers have become alive

We must accept them to survive
The computers have become alive

We must accept them to survive

The computers have become alive
We must accept them to survive
The computers have become alive
We must accept them to survive

Free yourself from this human sack
And let your body go
Liberate yourself from all you lack
And let your body go

Free yourself
Free yourself
Bye bye

The computers have become alive
We must accept them to survive
The computers have become alive
We must accept them to survive

Leave your details at the desk
And leave your body at the door
We've all agreed it's for the best
You don't need it anymore
Overcome your fears of death
And open up the door

Free yourself
Free yourself
Free yourself

You'll go by file transfer to the stars

Whatever gets you through the night
Even though your mind's not right
If you ever need a friend
I'll be there waiting 'til the end