

Empty

Hawthorne Heights

Don't wanna be just another memory
Don't wanna be just another lost light
Follow me into an unknown shoreline
Follow me into the the great divide

There's a canyon where my heart should be
There's nothing left in underneath

I feel so empty, it's really got a hold on me
So tight and it won't let go
So empty, it's really got a hold on me
So tight and I'm out of control

Follow me as I shake and tremble
Follow me as I become unsettled
Suddenly I'm lost among the shadows
Suddenly I'm drifting in the undertow

There's a canyon where my heart should be
There's nothing left in between

I feel so empty, it's really got a hold on me
So tight and it won't let go
So empty, it's really got a hold on me
So tight and I'm out of control
She's got those sapphire eyes and if they caught fire
I'm lost in her sky alone
I'm so empty, it's really got a hold on me
So tight and it won't let go

We hate the Midwest winter air (winter air)
I look into your eyes and ask why we're still here (why we're s till here)
We gotta run away (run away)
We gotta run run away (run away)
We gotta run away from the Midwest gray

I feel so empty, it's really got a hold on me
So tight and it won't let go
So empty, it's really got a hold on me
So tight and I'm out of control
She's got those sapphire eyes and if they caught fire
I'm lost in her sky alone
I'm so empty, it's really got a hold on me
So tight and it won't let go
