

Disappear

Hayden

i woke up in a sweat about something i might have said when i had way too much words they just fell out of my head i know your e interesting we open up and talk about what we should not what i told you i swore id keep until i die now that ive let you know theres no way to let you go so headed north the field of deer waited for it so like we did all of those years except this time you disappear