

High

Hayes Carll

I am just the right amount of high
Floating tween this moment and the sky
Exactly at the height that I like to fly
And I am just the right amount of high

I have chased a feeling all these years
Blocked by insecurities and fears
Oh, it feels so good as that all disappears
I have chased this feeling all these years

And now I am just the right amount of high
Floating tween this moment and the sky
Exactly at the height that I like to fly
And I am just the right amount of high

Sometimes this ol' world scares me to death
Steals my joy until there's nothing left
Covers up the light and knocks out all my breath
Sometimes this ol' world scares me to death

But right now I am just the right amount of high
Floating tween this moment and the sky
Exactly at the height that I like to fly
And I am just the right amount of high

The wind is at my back and the world is on my side
And I am just the right amount of high
