

Dying In Silence

Heaven Shall Burn

Yaaaahhhhhhh!

How many times

Can they bend your will until you break and die inside

Is there still a heartfelt discomfort in you?

Deep down inside to live these lies

Addicted to goodwill

And grace donated from your master's hand

On bleeding knees you're waiting for the answers

(with gazing eyes you're hoping for a sign)

Annihilation of your spirits

Dreams die in silence and piece by piece you go with them

Forsaken, unseen. Forsaken and unseen!

Always accepting the inevitable

Won't make you find your peace

There is no substitute for your lost dignity

No one shall ever poison the worlds in you,

The treasures in your heart

At the end of life there's only black and white