Because it was raining
I thought of you

Because I thought of you
I was like that
It didn't mean anything

For the first time in a while, I thought about you today
I deliberately look for a song we listened to together
My heart says it's okay to be sad or depressed today
It doesn't matter anyways, when this night is over
I'll forget you again and live like that for a while
And you'll only live on in my heart

Because it was raining
I thought of you
Because I thought of you
I was like that
It didn't mean anything
I hide under an umbrella
And pass by your house
Because I wanted to feel
The emotions of the old days again

Whenever falling rain droplets
And the sound of the clock's ticking
Fill the room
I go back to that time
I'd rather have this rain
Never stop
So that I could live every day in my memories
Because I'm a fool that hurt you
And I don't even deserve to hold you in my arms ever again

Because it was raining
I thought of you
Because I thought of you
I was like that
It didn't mean anything
I hide under an umbrella
And pass by your house
Because I wanted to feel
The emotions of the old days again

The happiness that was given to us
We must have used it all up too soon
I think that was the end
When this rain stops, we have to go our own ways
And live our own lives again

Because it was raining
I thought of you
Because I thought of you
I was like that
And pass by your house
