

Trying To Get To You

Helen Reddy

Oh, the shape I'm in
Would you believe I lost the race again
But I'm comin' again
'Cause I just gotta get in
'Cause I'm trying to get to you, to you, to you

The brick wall you wear
It's as obvious as the color of your hair
Would you believe that I, I really care
'Cause I'm trying to get to you, to you, to you

I tried love letters
But they all came back unopened
Guess you thought you'd read that same old thing again
I tried telephoning
Everytime it rang I was hoping
Guess you thought you'd hear the same old thing again

Oh, man, you're not alone
Would you believe I lost my way to love
To a love that never existed
Oh, I see it in you
That's why
I'm trying to get to you, to you, to you

Just a smile or two
Am I getting through, now
Just a touch or two
Love is getting to you
Don't fight what life demands
I'll keep trying to get to you, to you, to you

Oh, the shape I'm in
Would you believe I lost the race again
But I'm comin' again
'Cause I just gotta get in
'Cause I'm trying to get to you, to you, to you

Just a smile or two
Am I getting through, now?
Just a touch or two
Love is getting to you
Don't fight what life demands
I'll keep trying to get to you, to you, to you

Trying to get to you, to you, to you
Trying to get to you, to you, to you
Trying to get to you, to you, to you
Trying to get to you, to you, to you
