

Loudest

Hendersin

You left all the dirty dishes right there in the sink
Soon as I finish cleaning here, you come with your drink
But this is not about a dish
This 'bout getting what we wished
This is subtleties that's missed

It's not the clothes I don't fold
It's emotions we hold
It's the feelings untold

Why you keep those things inside your head?
Just never to be said
Just lying in the bed
Those voices
I'm just wishing that the crowd hushed
All those things left unsaid
They become the loudest

You don't care about my work. No
Co-workers. You don't know their names
Came home. You were just so exhausted
Lost it like we're playing games

But this is not about H.R.
Or how bad I drive your car
It's not seeing who you are
No, no

Or how you never change the trash
But how my delivery is brash
And how out we seem to lash
Sometimes

How we make mountains outta mole hills?
How you're so cold? Got no chill?
How you're projecting? So reel
That's my forte. Go will

They say the truth is hard to swallow when you do taste
Relax when the facts, you do face
'Cause really, I'm just here to say
At the end of the day
The cap off the toothpaste
It's not a big deal

Why you keep those things inside your head?
Just never to be said
Just lying in the bed
Those voices
I'm just wishing that the crowd hushed
All those things left unsaid
They become the loudest
