

Everything

Henry Green

I see it all now, caught in the sundown
And midnight comes too soon
We still want to move apart 'cause I know you

And I know you
Softly, softly
In the hard spaces between
In the acres of places we've been
And you know me
Wholly, wholly
In the lost spaces, we're free
In the echoes and daylight and dreams
You're the sum of everything

I feel it all now
Sun through the rain clouds
When morning won't come soon
I'll still wait for you in the dark 'cause I know you

And I know you
Softly, softly
In the hard spaces between
In the acres of places we've been
And you know me
Wholly, wholly
In the lost spaces, we're free
In the echoes and daylight and dreams
You're the sum of everything