

Something

Henry Green

In the flood we flock
We're pulling our weight till we rest above
And the breath, it's enough
Through my blood you run
Pushed in a pace till the feelings' numb
Give me rest, I'll succumb

You're giving me something
Something when I feel nothing
When night falls and cold sets in
Keep letting the sun in
Sun in, 'cause something's coming
That I can't face alone

Now I'm the heart of the heat
There's so much, somewhere amongst
The cold winter air
And I float without care

You're all that I need
Drew cold out of me
You slow down the speed
And move free

You're giving me something
Something when I feel nothing
When night falls and cold sets in
Keep letting the sun in
Sun in, 'cause something's coming
That I can't face alone
