

Tide

Henry Green

Frequent change, we're always drifting
Forming fires that fade with time
These weakened flames, they leave me longing
For something true, something so hard to find

I feel a perfect tide between you and I
Burning slowly, moving through me
Love like an ocean choir singing to the night
In to the night
And if the sky should fall and the Earth crumble
Everything falls away, yeah
But it'll be alright, I feel a perfect tide
You and I

Losing pace as I fall under
The longer days, the slow delay without you
Oh, the deepest pain, the hardest thunder
When I'm with you, it's something beautiful
Beautiful

I feel a perfect tide between you and I
Burning slowly, moving through me
Love like an ocean choir singing to the night
In to the night
And if the sky should fall and the Earth crumble
Everything falls away, yeah
Oh, it'll be alright, I feel a perfect tide
You and I
