

Piece Of You

hey, nothing

It's raining now, inside my head
Didn't hear a thing you said
Gates are closed, door is locked
I won't even hear you knock

Come on in, look around
Shattered glass all on the ground
Watch you step, take your time
Note of all things you find

I don't know any more
There's a piece of me that I'm still looking for
I don't know anymore
There's a piece of you that I just can't ignore

Now you're in, are you scared?
See how much you can bear
Broken mirror on the wall
How much longer 'til it falls?

Vacant rooms, torn up sheets
All they ever do is leave
Now you're in, now you see
All the things that torture me

I don't know any more
There's a piece of me that I'm still looking for
No, I don't know anymore
There's a piece of you that I just can't ignore

Do you like what you see, a different version of me?
Do you want to go home to a life where the Blinds aren't as closed
And my heart's not as cold
And the rain's not as slick as my skull
Slammed into the wall

I don't know any more
There's a piece of me that I'm still looking for
No, I don't know anymore
There's a piece of you that I just can't ignore

Now you're in
Now I'm free
There's nothing else
For you to see