

Worth The Wait

High Vis

Was it worth the wait?
Yeah, nothing good that you're needing
'Cause now you've had a taste it's done
And you need to bleed it

That something's always missing
The world it spins persistently

Where did you leave your head?
Your batteries dead and it's ages
Since you've seen someone you can call a friend
Life bleeds away in stages

That something's always missing
The world it spins persistently
I'm losing sight of reason
I can't shake it
And no one's missing me

Never standing still
Disguised as ever changing
We might have weathered the storm
Inside a war is raging

'Cause something's always missing
The world it spins persistently
I just can't stand this friction
I can't shake it
And no one's missing me

The world it spins persistently
I can't shake it and no one's missing me
The world it spins persistently
I can't shake it and no one's missing me