Lightless

I am standing here just blankly looking at your back
From your words I really don't know what to do

Watching you moving further away from me
My heart that is getting darker
In an instant I lost the light inside me

Even if I try to find you like this
Even if I try to think of you again like this
When I try to look at you just one more time
I can't do anything because I lost my light

L L L Lightless Before I knew,
The love light that you used
To shine me with is now fade out
If I had realized our farewell earlier
It would have been better
The large emptiness continues to scratch me
The painful scars remind me of you
Girl I need your luv
Even if I say this a hundred times, it is just a soliloquy

If a day passes by And another day Starts
You, who used be my light
Is now gone and I'm still Standing in the dark

If I try to hold on to you now
No matter how many times I tell you to come back to me
When I try to look at you one more time, just one more time
I can't see anything because I lost my light
