Before saying your last farewell to me
Stop for a moment
And smile at me
Stay for a bit, you who gave me light
Even if it's the end I don't want to show you my tears

(While smiling for you)
I say thank you for making
These happy memories
(Shining with an awkward smile)
I send you off like this but

When this door closes,
When your figure disappears
I'll spend the day in tears
Because of the memories I shared with you
I'll hope that you'll be happier

When I let go of this hand now
There won't be a reason for me to smile
But when in another person's embrace
I see you smile, I'll smile

When destiny leads you and that person
To the end of your relationship
Know that I'll be waiting
Even if you think about that person
I'll try to promise you that I'll make you smile
More than you smiled with that person but

(If you show me your tears)
And say that it was hard by that person's side
Because only a farewell remained
(Blankly holding your hand)
I'll hold you like this but

When this door closes,
When your figure disappears
I'll spend the day in tears
Because of the memories I shared with you
I'll hope that you'll be happier

When I let go of this hand now
There won't be a reason for me to smile
But when in another person's embrace
I see you smile, I'll smile

My heart has weakened
Before I can be with you again

When this door closes,
When your figure disappears
I'll spend the day in tears
Because of the memories I shared with you
I'll hope that you'll be happier

When I let go of this hand now

There won't be a reason for me to smile
But when in another person's embrace
I see you smile, I'll smile

When the door closes
