

Somebody Else

HIMALAYAS

Drunk again
With that untameable fire in his eyes and the fear in your eyes
That echoes around the room
He feels like he's losing you

And the harder that he tries, the more that he pushes you away
Deluded by the fantasy that you love him or he acts in this way

Please tell me, please tell me you'll love someone else
Please tell me, please tell me you'll love someone else
Please tell me, please tell me you'll love someone else
Please tell me, please tell me you'll love someone else

He tries to pull you back in
To make you see the good in him
Judgment clouded by all that's come before
Thoughts of when he's hit you
And all the scars you carry still
Remembering all the qualities in him you once saw

The harder that he tries, the more that he pushes you away
Deluded by the fantasy that you love or he acts in this way

Please tell me, please tell me you'll love someone else
Please tell me, please tell me you'll love someone else
Please tell me, please tell me you'll love someone else
Please tell me, please tell me you'll love someone else