

Eternity

Hinder

Withering away to a brighter world is what I need right now.
Instead of stumbling to the floor I'll stand and take a bow.
For all the good that type done I need to flow beyond.
This never-ending fucking flood that's drownded me so long.

I will overcome what's come upon me.
I have no choice but to look up and see.
The flesh that churns that burns me.
And you reach him for all eternity.

I know it'll be something I never knew, but nothing I was never told.
I need to break through this and see that this shit's getting old.
Can almost touch to where I wanna be even though I've lost my feeling.
I sense it now it's flowing back
I'll no longer be kneeling.

I will overcome what's come upon me.
I have no choice but to look up and see.
The flesh that churns that burns me.
And you reach him for all eternity.

Break!