

Trying to Get Home

Hinder

Sometimes you find yourself on the road to nowhere
Your head is confused, you're lost and you're going nowhere
Threw caution aside and lost when you've tried
You know where to go but you can't catch a ride
Everyone's gone, you're stuck all alone and nowhere

When a heavy heart is more than you can hold
When you're slipping and you feel like letting go
You can find your start at the bottom of a hole
Cause you're not the only one down here who's trying to get home

You ain't gonna find a hand out to get where you're going
The world is on your shoulders but you've gotta stand up and own it
If you want it easy then get back in line
I'll give you a ladder but you've gotta climb
You've gotta believe that you're gonna get where you're going

When a heavy heart is more than you can hold
When you're slipping and you feel like letting go
You can find your start at the bottom of a hole
Cause you're not the only one down here who's trying to get home

When a heavy heart is more than you can hold
When you're slipping and you feel like letting go
You can find your start at the bottom of a hole
Cause you're not the only one down here who's trying to get home
You're not the only one down here who's trying to get home
Cause you're not the only one down here who's trying to get home
