

Made every second count, never took a breath
The clock is ticking so fast makin' my head spin
This life's heaven and I'm not afraid to die
Can never do enough before you say goodnight
Scrambling, tumbling, straight down the mountainside

You wanna take it easy, but easy don't come for free
You make a little money and blow it all by the end of the week
Talk a big game, you're not getting any younger
Living in the cages that we built for each other
Chasing that sunset all the way, all we ever do

Trying to keep it up, the constant flood is not enough
The world is changing
Pain and oxygen, they always win
The consequence is only human nature now
Do I even believe what I'm talking about?

Got a good girl, thinking she might be the one
Two week's sober I already had enough
Throw back the covers when I'm getting up for work
Said I'll get to quitting but I love the way it hurts
Burn a pack a day, and it's only getting worse

Trying to keep it up, the constant flood is not enough
The world is changing
Pain and oxygen, they always win
The consequence is only human nature now
Do I even believe what I'm talking about?

Trying to keep it up, the constant flood is not enough
The world is always changing
Pain and oxygen, they always win
The consequence is only human nature now
Trying to keep it up, the constant flood is not enough
The world is always changing
Do you even believe what I'm talking about?
Do you even believe what I'm talking about?
I just wanna believe what I'm talking about
I just wanna believe what I'm talking about