

What are the odds that in this timeline
You'd give me your heart but drop and break mine?
Looking out for number one, aren't we all?
Likelihood's high, but I'm here for it anyway
This was bound to happen, if not now, then someday
It was nice calling you babe for a while

Chances are he's probably kissin' her like I used to
Probably missin' her like I still do
Every single day, probably
She's probably tellin' him what she told me
Probably tellin' him that he's the only guy
That she'll ever love, probably
And I'll never love another like you, probably

Not gonna lie, at first I was surprised
That falling as hard as I did felt that nice
But these aches and pains have stayed past their welcome
Nothing's guaranteed, but we weren't meant to be
Just leave my heart in pieces, that's my destiny

He's probably kissin' her like I used to
Probably missin' her like I still do
Every single day, probably
She's probably tellin' him what she told me
Probably tellin' him that he's the only guy
That she'll ever love, probably

I'm probably better off loved and lost
But probably should have known the cost
Of gambling all of myself on all of you
I probably thought you felt the same
I'll bet you probably loved the game even more
Than you loved me, probably
And I'll never love another like you, probably Probably
