

Ran Away

Hollow Coves

There was a time when I saw you
As someone that I could hold onto
I wanted to be there for you
Now we've slowly grown apart
You had the whole world handed to you
But you started to change and you threw it away
For a lie that was caught in the shadows
Pulling you away from home
Leaving all you've ever known

You ran away
And you lost your way
You ran away
And it's not the same

After all of these things that we've been through
Now I feel like I don't even know you
You're the shell of a man that I once knew
Trying to find his way back home
Hoping that the ache will go

You ran away
And you lost your way
You ran away
And it's not the same

My broken home
And these weary bones
You've come and you've gone
Now I'm all alone
My broken home
And these weary bones
You've gone and you've come
Now I'm all alone

You ran away
And you lost your way
You ran away
And it's not the same
