Strangers Again

Holly Dunn

Strangers again just like before
Not even friends after bein' much more
Strangers again and will be forever
It hurts when love ends as strangers again

I always thought a stranger was someone I'd never met But the one who passed me by today I know too well to forget We're strangers again, back where we started But we'll never begin 'cause we're strangers again

I always thought a stranger was someone I'd never met But the one who passed me by today I know too well to forget We're strangers again, back where we started But we'll never begin 'cause we're strangers again It hurts when love ends as strangers again