

Backseat Driver

Honne

Cover me with wallpaper
And worry about me later
Ignore what I have to say
It's not important anyway

And I've always, always been like this
A natural born apologist
Have I always lived my life like this?
Yes, I have and that's the way that I like it

I like driving the car from the backseats
Where nobody will notice me
Want the peace and the quiet of the back streets
Oh, won't you hop in front and ride with me?

And last night, I came to terms with who I am
And I felt like a brand new man
I'm understanding, I'm unique
And it really brightens up my week

And I've always, always been like this
A natural born apologist
Have I always lived my life like this?
Yes, I have and that's the way that I like it

I like driving the car from the backseats
Where nobody will notice me
Want the peace and the quiet of the back streets
Oh, won't you hop in front and ride with me?

Oh, won't you take the light from me?
Oh, take some of my life from me
Won't you take all the delight from me?
