

Woody

Hootie & The Blowfish

Can you see me there, oh, when I'm standing alone
How did you know I needed you here?
Can you feel the screams from the depths of my soul?
Is that what makes you appear?

See I often wonder, in the presence of this all
What we did to become this way
And I'll never forget when you whispered to me
You said, "Don't worry. It'll be ok"

And sometimes the sun calls our names
And sometimes we listen
Sometimes the devils there
But we can't just go with him

Can you hear me now, when I'm standing this close?
Can I tell you, one of my fears?
See I hope you live to sing when I die
'Cause if you're gone, I don't think I wanna be here no more

'Cause sometimes the sun calls our names
And sometimes we listen
Sometimes the devils there
But we can't just go with him

Sometimes the sun call our names, oh
Sometimes we listen
Sometimes the devils there
But we just can't go with him
