

Thin Line

Hooverphonic

Although we both know we belong to a different world
Although we both know it's not wrong to differ
It takes so much more than a guess to know Although we don't always share the same thoughts it wasn't always the same battle we fought
It takes way more then believe to know
We can hurt each other with loads of love
We can love each other with loads of hurt

It's a thin line to make it work
My armour is tough to penetrate
And though you don't always succeed you keep the faith
Grab my hand, it's getting late
And though you are not always sure of yourself
Insecure thoughts can be such a hell
But you found a way to break the spell