

A Winter's Rose

Hopesfall

Why is it that some are always learning,
But never come to the knowledge of the truth?
And their ever open minds refuse to hear a reasonable offer...
Humbly I extend the hope I have received careful
Not to pass judgement or impose my beliefs...
But I can no longer apologize for what I hold most dear
And with humility I attempt to live my life
With a sincerity that can bridge gaps...
And know that by abstaining from things of this world,
I am not condemning you but I'm choosing as you choose,
To follow what I know to be true
