

I've been dreaming of far away from all I know
Out on my own, under the sunshine
Making the same old mistakes that I know
From having you by my side
I see you lately, think of you like all the time
I try, I try
To forget what you took control of
What I feel inside

There's a secret wrapped inside of me
Wanna let it go, but not actually
And I can't breathe cause it's strangling me
It's the silence that is deafening

Blood gets spilled from time to time
The same colour as red wine
As we take the paths less taken
Make mistakes from time to time

You keep secrets wrapped in blankets
Keep them warm and safe inside
All the things you take for granted
Will be lost in the course of time

There's a secret wrapped inside of me
Wanna let it go, but not actually
And I can't breathe cause it's strangling me
It's the silence that is deafening
