

Rooftops

Hot Water Music

I've got the scars to remind me
I've watched the clocks go around
I've walked myself through some days
That have put me where I am
In another time in another place
All things might have been in place
But for now I'm finding myself
Up here standing on a rooftop screaming:

"Hey world are you listening?
Listening to me?
I'm here and i'm hurting to begin again"

It's another time it's another place
And we are making more old days
But for now I'm finding myself
Out here standing on my doorstep screaming:

"Hey world are you listening?
Are you listening to me
I'm here and I'm hurting to begin again
Hey world I'm ready to listen
And learn something new
I'm here and I'm willing
To get myself through"
