

Open Up

Hudson Taylor

Won't you open your heart up to me,
One more day, one more moment,
Two of us, too afraid.
We have lost communication,
Somewhere along the way.

I'm doing fine above the surface,
Underneath not so well,
Truth gets lost in conversation,
Somewhere along the way.

So won't you open your heart up to me,
We're still blind underneath that all.
I know it's hard to talk about it,
And simple words are hard to find.
And there will always be a confrontation,
Somewhere along the way.

So won't you open your heart up to me,
We're still blind underneath that all.
So won't you open your heart up to me,
We're still blind underneath that all.

And you don't have to do it alone,
Don't carry it all on your own.
No, you don't have to do it alone.

So won't you open your heart up to me,
Won't you open your heart up to me.
Won't you open your heart up to me,
We're still blind underneath that all.

So won't you open your heart up to me,
We're still blind underneath that all.
That all, that all.
