

Overloaded

Hudson Taylor

Face me
Face me now I'm gone
You liked me
Liked me all along
Up and down with the seasons
Slipping away
There's no sense in the reasons
You can't relate

Believe me, believe me
I'm sorry
We can live in the moment
And that's okay
But it's so hard to focus
When you don't feel afraid

I'm trapped inside my over-loaded mind
Looking for a space I never find

So fight me
Fight me in your war
I can't
Take it anymore
You're in love when you hurt me
I can't relate
Don't know how to desert you
Or suffer the hate

You hold me
Too lightly in your arms
You love me
But I don't know who you are
This is broken and hopeless
How we operate
There's nothing about this
There's no escape

I'm trapped inside my over-loaded mind
Looking for a space I never find

The damage
We've done and undone
It's painless
Clouded and numb
We're not laughing or crying
There's no release
All our anger and lying
Now deal with the grief

I'm trapped inside my over-loaded mind
Looking for a space I never find