

Sound the Alarm

Hudson Taylor

Last night I looked in your eyes
And there behind the beauty faintly disguised
I saw a burning window you were inside
You gave me one of those smiles
I thought that you might

Sound the alarm
Tell me you're hurt
Say that you'll let me in your world
And when it's dark and you feel deserted
And you can't find the words
I'm going to keep you close
I'll tell you you're not alone
Carry you out
Safe in my arms
Sound the alarm

Last night you gave me a fright
Called me looking for some light
And a reason to stay
Underneath your small talk I sense your pain
I'm waiting for that some day
When you'll say

Sound the alarm
Tell me you're hurt
Say that you'll let me in your world
And when it's dark and you feel deserted
And you can't find the words
I'm going to keep you close
I'll tell you you're not alone
Carry you out
Safe in my arms
Sound the alarm

Sound the alarm...

Last night you let me inside
I held you til we both cried
We made it alright

To sound the alarm
Tell me you're hurt
To say that you'll let me in your world
And when it was dark you felt so deserted
You could not find the words
I'll always keep you close
I'll tell you you're not alone
I'll carry you out
Safe in my arms
Sound the alarm
