

My Private Battle

Hunter Valentine

She's got her mind up
She knows that leaving can be so tough
But when it's set in stone
Then you're ready to be alone

And I was looking for you
The woman I always knew
And when I found your face
There was something that I just couldn't place

If I can have my private battle
You just looked and walked away
I can't let you stay
So I just let you slip away

And she may call your bluff
Another secret will leave you stuck
And when this mess gets old
You'll start doing what you've been told

If I can have my private battle
You just looked and walked away
I can't let you stay
So I just let you slip away

She's got her mind made up
She knows that leaving can be so rough
But when she's on her own
She'll be ready to be alone

If I can have my private battle
You just looked and walked away
I can't let you stay
So I just let you slip away
