Just Control Yourself

Hunter

There was never a time when it all made sense There were always missing elements Time and space is not in our hands We will never completely understand

Just control yourself The moment will pass Just control yourself Life is moving so fast

Walking and talking we see so much life to live Buried inside the soul there's magic to give Living and loving we learn some hard lessons Moving along in the game there's confessions

Wake up tomorrow and the thoughts of yesterday Change in form and alter your path today Look at the big picture don't miss your cue There's a place on the scale of life marked for you