Amelia's Song

Hurray For The Riff Raff

Heard you learned fly already I wanted you here for a while But you're not made of stone You're made out of honey And you can't be consumed by my life

It's raining here What is it like in the city? I dreamt of you last night You seem so lonely But you are a bird in the sky And you can't be beaten by this life

Is it hard to be an angel on the ground? It must be hard to be an angel on the ground But all the pain and beauty Will some day let your body free, finally, finally.
