Well Done

Hyland

Well my dad I know he meant well
I never heard him say what I needed

I have wishful days where I hope and pray
But there's still one thing that I'm missing

To hear him say well done
You're the son I love
Always be good enough

Well my bride to be I know she'll love well
I know mistakes I'll make will leave her hurting
I'll be miles away and I'll cause her pain
Is my love enough when nothing's certain?

I hope she'll say well done
You're the one I love
Even when life gets tough

I'm not useless
And I'm not foolish
It's just the lessons in life
I learn one day at a time
I learn one mistake at a time

When my time has come to say my farewell
I hope the life I leave would be a good one
Stand before the throne of the One who loved
To hear My faithful son, life has just begun

To hear him say well done
The mistakes you've made are buried in my grave
You're the son I love
Always be good enough
