Homeless

Hypnosis

Is there someone who could tell me Where I'm coming from? Is there someone who could tell me Where I go? I would be I could be I should be No matter who I am There's no place there I can live I'm sleepless I'm useless I'm homeless No matter who I am

There's no place where I can live

I look to the burning sky I think of these centuries of hate War for religion, politics, race They were your brothers But now you will kill them Until the complete extremination of your enemies Your land's devastated But you think: "This is my country now"

From the four points comes the wind From the oceans came life From millions years before To millions years after We're just part of the cycle of life

Each man is different and unique But holds no land in this world From dust to dust Ashes to ashes Nature is the only law
