

The One With The Snowflake

I Belong To The Zoo

I know I promised you a perfect song
We both know that this is far from that
So in my fear of giving things outright
I hope this song will help you figure me out

Can you spare a few minutes of your time
While I think I still have courage
Here's a few things I thought you might like
Hoping I don't over do it

I use your playlist as the soundtrack of my nights
I swear I can't skip a thing
It's like you know what's just right for my mind
And my god, I swear it freaks me out

I know I promised you a perfect song
We both know that this is far from that
So in my fear of giving things outright
I hope this song will help you figure me out

I hate that I didn't talk to you
Now we're waiting as the world starts to burn
'Cause if it were all up to me
I'd be rushing straight towards your home

You know I don't have much to say
But I can stay by your side, stare at the ceiling all day
And wait for your cat
To just get in the way, oh woah

I know I promised you a perfect song
We both know that this is far from that
So in my fear of giving things outright
I hope this song will help you figure me out

I started doing things you asked me to Like watching every single thing I eat
'Cause I'm not fit to run miles with you
But since we're talking about marathons

I'd rewatch "Friends" with you
Reach episode fourteen of season two
And secretly wished that you'd say
That I'm your lobster too
That I'm your lobster too