

Deceivers

I Prevail

I was so wrong to believe all of you,
Every time I open my eyes, I see the darkness come through.
The darkness come through.

I see the world through the undertow.
These anchors of hope, they drag me down below.
Put my faith in ones who promised change,
But where has it gotten me?

A broken dreamer, from a, corrupted preacher.
A vagabond, without a home,
I've been cursed to wander,
All alone.

Cuz' I've been buried alive,
I've been buried,
But I still have hope inside, yeah-ah-ah-ah-ah.

I was so wrong to believe all of you,
Every time I open my eyes,
I see the darkness come through.
If that's what's left of me, to live my life aimlessly.
I'll search for a light, a way to fight, until the world,
Collapses on me.
Collapses on me.

What good comes from the hands of a thief,
The words of a beggar,
The mind of a coward,
The heart of a sinner.
The hands dug the grave, and the words threw me in.
The minds still caved shut, but my hearts still beating.

Cuz' I've been buried alive,
I've been buried,
But I still have hope inside, yeah-ah-ah-ah-ah.

I was so wrong to believe all of you,
Every time I open my eyes,
I see the darkness come through.
If that's what's left of me, to live my life aimlessly.
I'll search for a light, a way to fight, until the world,
Collapses on me.

Collapses on me. [x3]

Is this it?
Have I spent, a lifetime of regret.
Not knowing, what I want.
Giving up all of my thoughts,
But I've changed, who I am.
I'll start over again.
Change my ways, change my life,
I am finally alive. [x3]