

A backwards march, my back against
Meadows of fear, where it all began

And there's a hunt for the saviour whom
And the purest of hearts, let their spirits be consumed

There's a new world laid at your feet
We build an army from nothing
We raise our children to the beat of its comforting pounding love

A forward talk solely against our ways and means
Without a glance
I'm on a hunt to find the cure
And before I depart into the deepest hole

Behind all insecurity, there is a wall of assurance
She is her own worst enemy, she fights her battles for no one

There's a new world laid at your feet
We build an army from nothing
We raise our children to the beat of its comforting pounding love

Let it sink in for a new beginning, you know better now
Water fills her lungs and she's inhaling, you feel better now
Underneath the stars her body's sinking, you do better now
A heavy sigh then not a sound

We have no lives to sacrifice
She makes a sin, dampens the cries
If there's a want for something new
You might find me at the start or where it ends for you

Let it sink in for a new beginning, you know better now
Water fills her lungs and she's inhaling, you feel better now
Underneath the stars her body's sinking, you do better now
A heavy sigh then not a sound