Now can you hear me?
When I call your name, it's kind of scary
It's like I'm calling the dead
And late at night when I'm thinking 'bout it
I could choose this, too hard to believe

I could be a coward and run away
Each time I don't wanna, I'm in your face
I pull up on you, I'm at your door
You better answer, I know you're home

Wait, hold up, hold up
Play that shit you were playing again

Can't be told what to do, don't even give it a try
I'm not the type to lose, what was it in your eye?
When I walk in the room, know you feeling my presence
She don't like how I move, leaving you was a blessing

Didn't want to bring it up, but I feel it, it's obvious
It's hard to be around someone who never learned to love themself
Already learned my lesson, girl, you know that we've been here before
We've both been here before, don't get too comfortable

Da-da-da-da-da-da, da-da, da-da
Da-da-da-da-da-da, da-da, da-da-da

Never sit 'round, got a lot to do
Never text back 'cause I'm on the move, yeah
Like a brick when it hits your face
Heartbreak, you're a little taste, yeah

Got me feeling wavy
Don't fuck up the vibe tonight
Think your friends don't like me
When they hear me, they'll slide tonight

Didn't want to bring it up, but I feel it, it's obvious
It's hard to be around someone who never learned to love themself
Already learned my lesson, girl, you know that we've been here before
We've both been here before, don't get too comfortable

Da-da-da-da-da-da, da-da, da-da
Da-da-da-da-da-da, da-da, da-da-da

Never sit 'round, got a lot to do
Never text back 'cause I'm on the move, yeah
Like a brick when it hits your face
Heartbreak, you're a little taste, yeah
