

Every Little Means Trust

Idlewild

I don't even know that feeling
You need something to dream in
And if I don't have a reason
To blame the feelings I don't know
It could be anything or everything
Left me with nothing to dream in
One by one at least
In my dreams I am always young
Every little means trust
Love at the end of love
Every little means trust
Love at the end of love
Every little must mean something more than enough
Every little is lost trust in love

I don't even know that feeling
You should know what I'm meaning
What's the good in knowing everything
When you understand nothing more
You read what you read
And in the variations
Of what you choose to read into it
One by one at least
In my dreams I am always young
Every little means trust
Love at the end of love
Every little means trust
Love at the end of love
Every little must mean something more than enough
Every little is lost trust in love
Every little means trust
Love at the end of love
Every little means trust
Love at the end of love
Every little must mean something more than enough
Every little is lost trust in love
