

Looking around
I thought I was home
Memory's a strange thing
Did I do this to us?
I know you still care
My haven is breaking

Hiding my fear
Wary of love
Oh, I think I'm drowning
The storm's revealing
A void it's left in me

Curious sound
Deafening peace
Crawling through the evening
You tug at my sleeve
But all I can feel
Is callous and receding

Oh, look at me now
And tell me you know
How I can keep believing
When all that I'm feeling
Is pushing me away

As I'm standing on my own
I hear my voice trembling
It echoes all alone
Through the midnight air
I'll make it till dawn

I'm gonna have to learn to hold you close again
I'll learn to be a friend
It's nothing that I ever thought I'd have to do
But time has put me through
Oh, time has changed the way I love you

Cutting my roots
Withered away
Yesterday is choking
Tomorrow will breathe
If you can be there
Harmony is growing

Biding my time
Harrowing space
I know that I'm broken
But no other soul
Can fix this part of me

And I won't let you down
Can you hear my voice
It echoes all around
Through the open air
I fill my lungs and face another day

I'm gonna have to learn to hold you close again
I'll learn to be a friend
It's nothing that I ever thought I'd have to do
But time has put me through
I'm gonna have to learn to feel your warmth again
I'll learn to take your hand
And nothing ever changes like you want it to
When time has put you through
Oh, time has changed the way I love you
Time has changed the way
Time has changed the way

(Looking around
I thought I was home
Looking around
I thought I was home)