

Can you ignore a feeling?
Do you deny that you're a part of this?
Can you live on without breathing?
I am panting to catch my breath

I keep waiting to start my life
It feels like the cut of a knife
These words have been there all along
It hurts, and have for far too long

It starts in here
Right here, right now
And it never ends

Leave all that you are
Behind, follow that star
Believe, not just the things that you see
It's time to find what you could be
What you could be

I keep waiting to start my life
It feels like the cut of a knife

The cut of a knife

These words have been there all along
It hurts, and have for far too long

It starts in here
Right here, right now
And it never ends

Leave all that you are
Behind, follow that star
Believe, not just the things that you see
It's time to find what you could be
What you could be

If believing would be a simple thing
Then I would never stand here able to sing
These words from a broken song
It hurts, and have for far too long
If believing would be a simple thing
Then I would never stand here able to sing
These words from a broken song
It hurts, and have for far too long

These words have been there all along
It hurts, and have for far too long

Right here, right now

Leave all that you are
Behind, follow that star
Believe, not just the things that you see
It's time to find what you could be

Leave all that you are
Behind, follow that star
Believe, not just the things that you see
It's time to find what you could be