

Disoriented

Imperative Reaction

why do you refuse to see that you are everything to me who gave you the right to decide that i don't need you by my side well i promise you i won't fall back into the pain of yesterday another day i won't endure into the forever of what you've done another time i will let go please don't stand by and watch me do this please don't let me leave all that we are so disoriented

i can't go on without you and i hope that you come through 'cause without you i am lost and i know that i won't last but i promise you i won't fall back