

Severed

Imperative Reaction

you will give up
you always do
and time won't let you follow through your weakness has shown and now you're everthing they've thrown at you you knew the tide was coming you cast yourself adrift you burned your empty words and fucked it up again now the colours drain like blood down the canvas you abandoned and shadows hide the words you replace with excuses but excuses lose their weight when you're forced into a corner and the one you once believed in has left you there alone

now what can you show
for all the dreams you cripple
now how does it feel
when everything you had is gone
now what can you say
for the life you fought so hard to live
now how does it feel
now how does it feel
how can you walk away
when this was everything you wanted
now how can you say
this was nothing that you needed
how can you fall apart
at a time that is so crucial
now how does it feel
now how does it feel

you are too lost
you'll always be too caught up in your world to see reality is spoken and you turn the other way you always have a reason to deny what you destroy you burn your acid words and left it all behind
now the reasons fall like cinders from the fire you avoided when whispers shun the failures you tried so hard to hide when whispers lose their trust when your lost and apathetic
and the one you once believed in
is a total fucking loss

now what can you show
for all the dreams you cripple
now how does it feel
when everything you had is gone

now what can you say
for the life you fought so hard to live
now how does it feel
now how does it feel
how can you walk away
when this was everything you wanted
now how can you say
this was nothing that you needed
how can you fall apart
at a time that is so crucial
now how does it feel
now how does it feel

now what can you show
for all the dreams you cripple
now what can you show
when everything you had is gone

now what can you show
for all the dreams you cripple
now how does it feel
when everything you had is gone
now what can you say
for the life you fought so hard to live
now how does it feel
now how does it feel
how can you walk away
when this was everything you wanted
now how can you say
this was nothing that you needed
how can you fall apart
at a time that is so crucial
now how does it feel
now how does it feel

now what can you show