Take me to paradise, let me be free Lead me through fire Sailing on the open sea

In the rising sun a promise had been done to be kept With the wings of an angel they flew to be the shadow for the s un

So the world would be in total darkness No one could then see the soul On their way to heaven

Waves coming in with the tide Clear water flushes over the shoreline We still ignore the screams of the tide Of the tide

So the world would be in total darkness No one could then see the soul On their way to heaven On their way to heaven
