

A Little Robin Told Me

In Hearts Wake

Why are we still fighting this war?
What are we still fighting this for?
Open your eyes from what may
Awaken them to see the true night and day

Wake up, wake up
Wake up!

We won't stride this woeful world for much longer
Harrowing the earth and building every city
We are lost in this dark place of no return
We are lost in this dark infinite abyss
Puncturing the earth
What will be death valley

And in the end, all life dies
And in the end, this will end with dark dead skies
Where have we gone wrong?

Tears from gallons, our ships are slowly sinking
Tears from gallons, our ships are slowly sinking
Where have we gone wrong?
Where have we gone wrong?

The sooner we sleep, the sooner this will pass

Projecting fear into our enemies

Before we die, before we die
We must change our ways for the future
I'll watch the sun set into a sea of blood
And wonder if it will ever return, return

And in the end all life dies
And in the end, this will end with dark dead skies
And in the end
And in the end, in the end

The eyes begin to open, but hence to no avail
The torn earth still weeps its sullen cry
The bloodstained clouds still remind me of yesterday
The vegetation begins to grow
Upon the mouths of stone angles

And in the end, all life dies
And in the end, this will end with dark dead skies
All life dies

And in the end all life dies
And in the end all life dies

And in the end all life dies

Why can't I dream anymore?