

Shapeless (Judgement)

In Hearts Wake

In this limitless landscape my mind is running wild. All shapeless forms collide—the room around me evolves, and ever so softly I hear lies. All paths lead to the end, will you attack or will you defend? Engage in what's unclear, overwhelmed by fear. So fucking ask me what are you so afraid of?
You'll never know the truth.

In this limitless landscape my heart is beating fast. All hopeless thoughts dissolve—the floor beneath me returns and ever so slowly I wake up. False suns of trinity explode in the universe, Residual intellect declines within a simple verse. Fate has mapped man as the master race, can you hear time echo? Third eyes open to the world, intuition twisting minds into what we know.

All paths lead to the end, will you attack or will you defend?
Engage in what's unclear, overwhelmed by fear. Mother, father won't you make me brave or will I live life to an early grave?