

The World Is Just Another Thing In My Way

Indecision

In the name of all that's sacred
All that's left will be you and I
Faced with distress and disappointment
We distanced ourselves from the world
We both ran as far as we could but shelter was not anywhere
We ran in opposite directions but destiny brought us here
In the hours that remain speak no more of tortured days
This world has failed us both, together we turn away
In the name of all that's sacred, all that's left is you and I